VISIT TO CORCOVADO

Duration : 4 hours

Corcovado is a granite peak 710 meters high, located in the Tijuca Forest, offering a privileged view of the city of Rio de Janeiro and Guanabara Bay. It is famous for hosting at its summit the Christ the Redeemer statue, one of the main symbols of the city and the country. The Corcovado railway line, starting from the Cosme Velho station, was inaugurated in 1884. Stretching 3,824 meters, it was the first in the country to be built exclusively for tourism purposes.

The train, older than the statue itself, transported the materials needed for its construction during the four years of work. In 1910, this line became the first in Brazil to be electrified, and the old steam trains were replaced by electric engines.

RIO DE JANEIRO OPTIONS

ASCENT OF SUGARLOAF MOUNTAIN

Duration : 4 hours

The ascent of Sugarloaf Mountain is done via a cable car in two stages: the first ride will take you to the Urca Mountain, where you can already enjoy a stunning view of the city. On the second cable car ride, you will reach the summit of Sugarloaf Mountain. This name evokes blocks of refined sugar placed in clay molds for transportation by boat during the sugarcane trade era. However, it is possible that this explanation is merely popular etymology, and the name may actually derive from the Tupi-Guarani term Pau-nh-acuqua ("big hill" in Portuguese). This peak, a monolithic granite block, is the only one among the city's peaks to rise directly from the seashore. It is located on a peninsula at the entrance to Guanabara Bay.

Once known as "the largest stadium in the world," which sometimes hosted over 200,000 spectators, its capacity was reduced to 73,531 spectators.

Listen carefully! If you hear branches cracking, it means the monkeys are overhead.

VISIT OF THE SANTA TERESA NEIGHBORHOOD

Santa Teresa, built around the convent of the same name in the 18th century, was once a residential area for the city's bourgeoisie and became one of Rio de Janeiro's earliest expansions. The neighborhood is known for its French-inspired architecture, some of which still stands today.

In 1872, the "bonde" (tramway) arrived, becoming a symbol of the area. Since 1896, this tramway has provided a scenic route to the city center, crossing the iconic Lapa Arches, a decommissioned aqueduct.
